

Classic Vintage, Timeless Style

By Mark Sincevich

Close your eyes, take a deep breath and then imagine the phrase 'Classic.' What do you see? Perhaps it is a red 1965 Ford Mustang convertible zooming around a two-lane road near the ocean being driven by Steve McQueen. What is he wearing?

It might very well be a snap-button Western shirt, Levi's 501 jeans, cowboy boots with a story to tell, and distinctive sunglasses. Who's in the front seat with him? Imagine it's his co-star from the movie, "The Thomas Crown Affair," Faye Dunaway. She's wearing a classic 1970's dress highlighting her curves; her headscarf prevents her blonde hair from being taken by the wind. She also is wearing a unique pair of sunglasses.

Their style is something that is timeless. And each decade has many actors and actresses who have epitomized this timeless style. In the 1970's you might think about the hip Richard Roundtree dressed in a slim turtleneck, polyester pants and leather jacket from the classic movie "Shaft." While 1989 brought a slightly different type of style full of teen angst from the movie "The Breakfast Club," starring Molly Ringwald in her 1980's women's blouse or top.

What if a certain look or item of clothing could capture the feeling you continue to get from watching these films? You just need the original clothing! Since you are unable to walk into your nearest department store and newly purchase the same outfits each of your screen icons were wearing 'back then,' you have to take a more unique approach to acquire this vintage clothing. By the way, any item of clothing that is older than 15 years is considered 'vintage.'

By combining 'classic' and 'vintage,' you now have the ability to wear the original clothing from the big screen or even transfer the feelings you had from watching these classic films to a unique and distinctive item of clothing. Perhaps you had a parent or another person you admired who always wore just the right outfits from the 1960's, 1970's or 1980's. Maybe you were born in the wrong decade and you need to wear the right clothes to get you back 'home.' Classic vintage gives you the outlet to pull off your 'look.'

Classic Vintage is really a 'call to action' for people who want to have limitless self-expression. It means being dedicated to the art of creating a unique, distinctive and timeless look that can't be duplicated. By taking classic vintage clothing from one decade such as dresses, groovy jeans, a western shirt or maybe a cool vest, you can combine items from other decades, such as the 1970's and 1980's to create a one-of-a-kind look! Classic vintage means you are wearing clothing that is gently used, full of rich and colorful past all the while allowing you to maximize your self-expression. The next time you think classic, think classic vintage. Classic Vintage really is timeless style.

About The Clothing Warehouse – Baltimore

The Clothing Warehouse is the Baltimore Area's premier destination for classic vintage clothing in the heart of the Federal Hill neighborhood. The 1,500 square foot store has a surprisingly large selection of groovy used jeans, 70's and 80's dresses, boots with a story to tell, western shirts, 1000s of vintage t-shirts, 70's and 80's overstock sunglasses, hip accessories and more. The store also buys select vintage clothing from its customers. The Baltimore location is part of a system of vintage clothing stores first started 15 years ago in the Little Five Points area of Atlanta, GA. The hours of operation are M-Sat 11-8pm and Sun 12-6pm. Please call 410-244-6554 or visit the store at 1211 South Charles Street, Baltimore, MD 21230 or <http://www.TheClothingWarehouse.com> .